INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Cut the sheet of tissue into a 3 inch wide piece, down the length of the tissue piece.

2. Paint a coating of decoupage medium onto the wood bracelet on the outside.

3. Lay the sheet of tissue onto the bracelet lengthwise and wrap the tissue around the outside edges of the bracelet. Where the paper overlaps at the end, apply a little more decoupage medium to the tissue to stick it down. Starting at the center of the wood on the outside, press the tissue from the center toward the edge of the bracelet, to smooth it out. There will be come wrinkles in the tissue.

4. Apply more decoupage medium to the inside of the braclet and then press the tissue from the outside toward the inside of the bracelet, smoothing as you go.

5. Apply another coat of decoupage medium to the top of the tissue paper on the bracelet, both outside and inside. Allow to dry. It is best to hang the bracelet to dry it.

6. Wrinkles in the tissue may show and that's OK. If necessary, paint on more decoupage medium to tack down any areas that are coming apart.

7. After the bracelet is dry, you can add paint to your design, or leave it finished at this stage.

ALTERNATIVE METHODS:

1. Cut the tissue into 1 inch strips and then apply the strips in a random fashion.

2. Cut the tissue into 1 inch squares and apply the squares in a random fashion.

3. The bracelet may be painted first and then after the paint dries, coated with decoupage medium to seal the paint.
